“THE BROADHEAD SILHOUETTE IS HERE TO STAY”

The W. Smithson Broadhead silhouette, designed and installed in the early 1940s, is ours for years to come. Thanks to villager Mark Saltzman, the street sign scenes will guide and delight future generations through Gates Mills just as they have us. Mr. Saltzman has generously offered to reproduce the Broadhead silhouettes as they appeared new, and he is planning to repair the few original silhouettes that have stood sentinel over Gates Mills street corners for nearly eight decades. The painstaking enterprise is already underway, and the silhouettes will be replaced, restored and installed in phases. Enjoy watching new, freshly painted, black Broadhead silhouettes—a manifestation of Gates Mills beauty and uniqueness—be phased in throughout the village.
